Horizontal Heater Treater Exterran

Horizontal Heater Treater The Horizontal Heater Treater utilizes heat and mechanical separation enhancement devices, such as plate packs, baffles and electrostatic grids. The Horizontal Treater is designed to efficiently treat large capacities of crude oil by removing water and emulsion from the wellstream, preparing the treated oil for delivery.

Horizontal heater treater OilfieldWiki

Horizontal heater treaters are used in the oil/gas industry to help facilitate oil/water separation by speeding up emulsions separation through applying heat. Heater treaters can be thought of as low pressure, three phase separators equipped with fire tubes. They separate gas from the incoming emulsion and separate the emulsion into a water phase and an oil phase. Heater treaters can also function as a freewater knockout, a heat exchanger, a filter, and as a water wash tank.

A heater treater is a pressure vessel that uses heat and residence time to separate clean, dry oil from incoming fluids. It usually is located immediately downstream of the Free Water Knockout during the oil dehydration process. The heat allows for easier separation of the oil and water and also allows solid particles such as sand and corrosive products to settle out. The quality of the effluent oil is measured with a bulk sediment and water (BS&W) probe.

Separators Heater treaters and Pressure in Oil Gas

Controlling the height of the water column in the heater-treater is an important aspect of using the heater treater. The level of water should be about one foot above the fire tube. In other words, water fills the space from the bottom of the tank to one foot above the fire tube, with oil above that. As oil flows from the inlet tube and up, it will flow past and around the fire tube.

Vertical Heater Treater Exterran

Vertical Heater Treater. The Vertical Heater Treater breaks emulsions in crude oil using heat and retention time. The Vertical Heater Treater efficiently helps remove water and emulsion from crude oil wellstreams, so you can keep your production flowing.

Emulsion treating methods petrowiki org

Flash systems use the excess heat in the oil that is received from the treater or treating system and convert it to latent heat at or near atmospheric pressure. A surface condenser condenses the flashed steam in the cooler, incoming stream of raw crude, thus scavenging the excess heat that ordinarily would be wasted.
